Vineyard:	The Scott family believes Nelson to be one of the most underrated wine regions in the world, always playing second fiddle to its big brother Marlborough. They have teamed up with a grape grower to produce a ripe fruit-forward style of wine.
Vinification:	The fruit is harvested then transported to Marlborough. The wine has a long cool fermentation to retain fruit freshness and then is immediately inoculated for Malolactic fermentation. After some time on lees and with minimal lees stirring, about 20% is added to oak for maturation. Designed as an easy-drinking early release Chardonnay with minimal oak.
Appearance:	Pale gold.
Bouquet:	Peach and ripe apricot, with light oak.
Palate:	A fruit-forward balanced style with a touch of creaminess.
