Vineyard:	Jack Mann Cabernet Sauvignon is a single vineyard wine from the Justin Vineyard in the Frankland River region of Western Australia. The soils at Frankland River are ancient degraded granitic gravels.
Vinification:	The grapes were hand-harvested, hand sorted, crushed and then fermented in small open top fermenters. The individual ferments were conducted with indigenous yeast which contributes to the complexity and texture of the wine. Following eighteen months maturation in new and one-year-old French oak barriques, the wines were assessed, blended, filtered and bottled.
Appearance:	Deep purple-red core with a bright, scarlet hue.
Bouquet:	The youthful and seductive bouquet displays a concentrated amalgam of brightly scented mulberry, cassis, blueberry and dark bramble fruits, with a subtle overlay of vanilla, dried tobacco, wild mint, and chocolate box.
Palate:	The palate is rich, sumptuous and multi layered resulting in a wine with intensity, grace and power. The firm, fine grained tannins are sweet and beautifully integrated with the fruit and oak.
