Vineyard:	The terroir of Saint-Emilion is divided into two distinct zones: the clay-limestone soil of the côtes gives round and fruity Merlots, while the sandy, flinty gravel of the sable allows the Cabernets to reach optimum maturity.
Vinification:	Baron Philippe de Rothschilds winemakers monitor the selected parcels throughout the vegetation cycle, advising the growers on vineyard practices in order to meet the exacting quality standards of Mouton Cadet Réserve.
Appearance:	A glittering garnet red with a slightly crimson hue.
Bouquet:	The nose opens on spice notes, especially Malabar pepper and cinnamon, followed with airing by ripe red and black fruit aromas, especially wild strawberry, bilberry and blackberry.
Palate:	Forward yet supple tannins leads into a stylish, fruit-filled mid-palate on blackberry and blackcurrant flavours, while mixed vanilla and mocha notes appear on the finish.
