Vineyard:	A dry and distinguished wine typical of the Dambachois hillsides. Located in the heart of Alsace on the wine route, the town of Dambach-La-Ville is considered one of the largest wine-growing hubs in Alsace. This land of character is also home to the renowned Grand Cru Frankstein on its slopes, which is the pride of Dambachois winegrowers.
Bouquet:	On the nose we find notes of lemon and white flowers which will evolve and mineralize after a few years of aging
Palate:	The palate is supported by an elegant, lemony acidity that goes particularly well with Alsatian cuisine such as sauerkraut or baeckeffe.
