Vinification: The product of three classic Irish approaches to whiskey distillation, Paddy has the distinction of blending grain, malt and pot-still into a single, smooth spirit. Each component contributes subtle flavourings to achieve a uniquely smooth result. The grain offers a light, floral touch of crisp sweetness. The malt augments the sweetness with a slight note of toasted biscuit, and the pot-still brings the traditional Irish creaminess.

Bouquet: Malty, fresh, woody. Hints of spice, honey, vanilla.

Palate: Light and crisp. Hints of nuts, malt, charred wood. Finish: A gently fading sweetness. A lingering of mild, woody malt.
